Homebush Boys Wireless Network All Years

Daily Notice by David Zou on Sunday, 9 October 2016 at 10:17pm

Mark as Read | More

During the holidays, Homebush Boys has taken control over the nswdet wireless network. As a result, the wireless at Homebush Boys is now called "HomebushBHS".

The authentication has also changed as a result. You must now use your Homebush Boys username and password instead of the Department of Education (internet/portal) password. You also must not suffix your username with @detnsw. You will still be required to suffix your DET username when authenticating with the internet proxy.

Here are the details to get you connected:
Wireless Name/SSID: HomebushBHS
EAP Method: PEAP
Server Certificate: Do not check
Identity/Username: (Your Homebush Boys Username)
Password: (Your Homebush Boys Password)

Windows users will need to install a new certificate to successfully connect to the new network.
The certificate and tutorials for devices including Windows, OSX/macOS, Chrome OS, Android and iOS. can be found on Moodle > Public > BYOD Support & ICT Integration.
